This year Lift Shop has once again been involved with some remarkable projects, and we're very proud of the installations that have been completed... with many more still in progress.

Our lifts continue to be in high demand - for both their features and style. We increasingly find that the technology and safety features are a big draw card, but of course, customers also love the customisation possibilities, which are endless. Then there's the quality, which is unbeatable - there's just nothing else quite like it, so don't be fooled.

It continues to give us great pleasure to share some of our most recently celebrated projects with you and this month we feature:

Architects Know Best

Lift Shop works with the country's leading architects to install luxury lifts as the finishing touch in stunning homes, like this five-level Vacluse waterfront home designed by Bruce Stafford Architects, which features Lift Shop's high performance Supermec. Featuring sleek, brushed stainless steel doors and cabin, the Supermec is customised with travertine stone floors to match the floors at each landing.

Perfect Harmony

The practical design of this new home in Sydney's Eastern Suburbs included a centrally located lift with wrap around timber staircase. To match the decor of the home, white aluminium landing doors with milk glass were chosen as a perfect match.

Keeping with the elegant stylish theme, the cabin interior has been fitted in a combination of brushed and polished stainless steel finishes as well as a full height mirror to the rear wall for an added sense of spaciousness.

When Only The Best Will Do

When a glamorous society couple were putting the finishing touches on their lavish home, Lift Shop was invited to join together two single-level apartments to create a palatial, two-floor penthouse that was perfect for even the most opulent parties. Taking advantage of stunning city views, a FreedomLift was encased by a sleek glass shaft, complemented by sophisticated woodgrain and all set behind golden doors.

Surfers Paradise

To ensure residents and guests had access to all levels of the recreation area of this popular Surfers Paradise Resort, the building management decided to put in TWO of our P1 platform lifts. They were excited that we could offer a product that was not only suitable for a harsh outdoor salt environment, could also be installed onto the existing concrete slabs without the need for any excavation.

Financial Security

D&B Most Trusted

In today's uncertain economic environment, trust and certainty, like safety is paramount. You want to deal with a home elevator supplier that is large and capable, that's been around and that will continue to be around to provide the long term support.

Decide with Confidence

Established in 1996, and with the name, reputation and products that are the envy of the industry, it's not a surprise our competitors pretend to be us. At Lift Shop we support our claim of strength and security with substantiation. We are the only home elevator specialist to offer our D&B credit report because there is often a big difference between looks and the reality.

Don't be caught by marketing hype, demand the proof. Attached is an extract of our credit report from D&B.

Financial peace of mind - proof supplied.

Some home elevator companies have recently failed and resurrected after hurting creditors and customers, others are at severe and very high risk of delinquency. Don't get caught. Demand the proof.
