Making It Perfect

The only thing missing from this brand new home was a lift - easily fixed with the construction of a shaft to the side of home and then installation of a Supermec.

Making sure the lift complimented and enhanced, the maximum use of polished stainless steel and contrasting F12PPS skinplate walls and ceiling achieved this perfectly. With a full size mirror and timber floor to tie in with the rest of the home, the lift exudes class and looks beautiful.

Qualified Professionals

When buying a lift it is important to know who you are dealing with, Lift Shop prides itself on being a fully qualified home elevator specialist in a number of fields. Always ask your proposed lift supplier for evidence of all necessary licenses - there are many companies operating that do not have the required electrical contractors license to install lifts.

Feedback

We love to hear what our customers think. If you have any feedback on any of the above stories, or would simply like to tell us about your Lift Shop lift experience or project, please contact us.
